Executive Summary

This statistical report provides a brief summary of trends for adults and juveniles who have received services from the Alameda County Probation Department (ACPD) in March 2013. The purpose of this report is to promote greater understanding of the breadth and depth of services provided by the department and a snapshot of the populations we serve. This report is produced bi-monthly. The next report will be for May 2013 and be available at the end of June 2013.

This report was developed by the Alameda County Probation Department's Data Analysis Research & Reporting Team (DARRT). We welcome your feedback. For questions or comments, please feel free to contact Carissa Pappas, Management Analyst at: ProbationDataRequest@acgov.org

- Figure 1 displays an aggregate summary of the cases during March 2013 for adult clients. The table also displays the number of clients who are on probation at the start of the month and allows the reader to “drill down” and review the data by gender and race. On March 1st, 2013 there were 13,366 adults on probation. Throughout the month of March, there were 249 new cases opened and 62 adults released from probation. On March 31, 2013 there were 13,553 adults on probation. The average length of time on probation for adults was 4 years.

- Figure 2 displays the offense type breakdown for the total adult client population in March 2013. Over 95% of adult clients supervised are convicted felons. The majority of clients are placed on probation for a property (36%) or drug (31%) offense, while only 13% of clients were placed on probation for offenses against persons and 14% for “Other Felony” offenses.

- Figure 3 displays an aggregate summary of demographic information for adult probation clients. Males account for 84% of the population, while females represent 16%. African-Americans make up half of the population, White clients account for 21% as do the Latino population. The remaining clients are Asian (5%) and “Other Races” (4%).

- Figure 4 displays the locations where adults on probation reside. The majority of adult clients reside in Oakland (41%) and Hayward (13%). The “Other” category includes 12% of clients who reside in small communities that make up less than one percent each of the total for that group. Please note: Figure 4 displays some cities which are not in Alameda County. Per various court orders and mandates, Alameda County Probation Department maintains jurisdiction over some probationers that reside out-of-County.

- During the investigation stage of the adult probation process, all adult probationers receive a brief screening for service needs. Figure 5 displays primary service needs for the Banked and Formal Supervision populations. Drug and alcohol service needs make up over half of the Banked populations' primary needs and 40% for clients under formal supervision. Employment needs also rate high for each population, 21% and 18% respectively.

Re-Aligned Population March 2013

- Between October 2011 and March 2013, 1,065 Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS) clients were released from the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) to Alameda County Probation Department for supervision services after the passage of AB109. Figure 6 shows the number of cases received per month. In March 2013, there were 632 active cases and the remaining 433 cases were either closed or transferred to another jurisdiction.

- The majority of PRCS clients released from CDCR to date are African-American males and overall, people of color account for 85% of all PRCS clients. Females make up less than 10% of the total population, while males make up over 90%.

- As Figure 8 shows, there have been 388 violations filed on PRCS clients in Alameda County. Out of all violations filed, the majority (42%) have been for new arrests. 28% of violations have been filed for AWOL status which means the client stopped reporting to the ACPD sometime after their first meeting. An additional 25% were filed for no show status which means the client never reported to their first meeting with ACPD upon release from CDCR custody. The remaining clients who had violations filed were for a combination of a new arrest and a no show (3%) and Other Violations (2%).

- There have been 176 violations filed on PRCS clients for new arrests. Figure 9 shows the percent of offense types represented by the new arrests. Most new arrest violations were for drug/alcohol arrests (32%), property offenses (30%), and offenses against persons (26%). Weapons offenses accounted for 6% of violations, while offenses against the public made up 2% of new arrest violations. Arrests in the "Other" category made up the remaining 5% of offense types. The majority of "Other" arrests were for misdemeanor offenses.

- Figure 10 displays an aggregate summary of the cases that were active in March 2013 for juvenile probationers. The table also displays the number of youth who were on juvenile probation at the start of March 2013, as well as the average length of stay for those whose cases have closed. The table allows the reader to “drill down” and review the data broken down by gender and race. On March 1, 2013 there were 1,886 youth on juvenile probation. Throughout the month of March, there were 57 youth newly placed on probation and 66 youth whose cases were closed from probation. The average length of stay for youth on juvenile probation was 1 year. *Average length of stay is only calculated for those cases that closed during the month.

- Figure 11 displays the offense type breakdown for the total juvenile client population in March 2013. The majority of clients were placed on probation for a property (31%) or person offense (26%), while 22% of clients were placed on probation for failing to obey a court order. The remaining juveniles were placed on probation for weapons offenses (7%), offenses against the public (6%), drug offenses (5%), status offenses (2%), and Other offenses (1%).

- Figure 12 displays the locations where juveniles on probation in Alameda County live. The majority of youth reside in Oakland (46%) and Hayward (15%). The remaining 39% of youth reside in a variety of communities throughout Alameda County. The “Other” category includes 5% of clients who reside in small communities that make up less than one percent each of the total for that group.

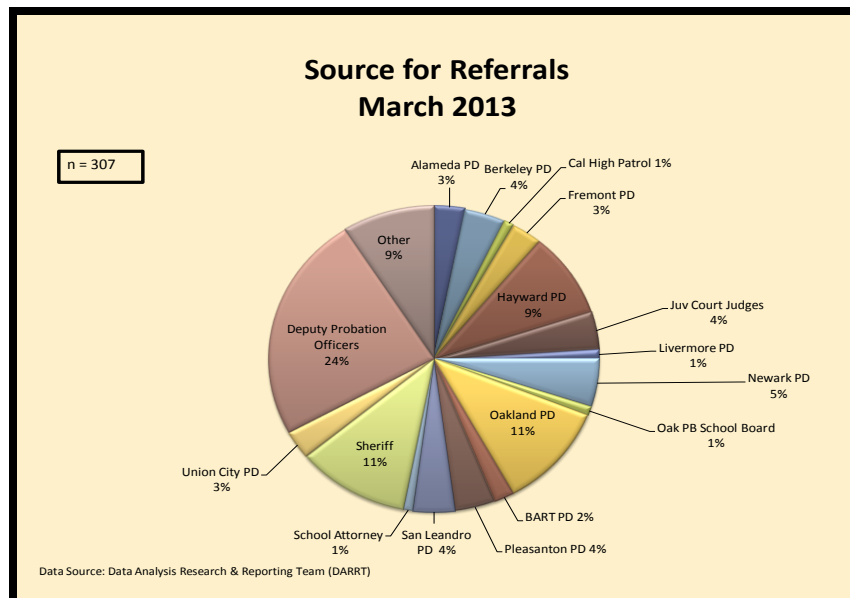

Juvenile Services- Referrals January 2013

- In March 2013, referrals for warrants composed the largest portion (20%) of all juvenile referrals to ACPD. Referrals for property offenses were the next largest category (19%), followed by offenses against persons (16%), violations of probation (VOP 14%), and offenses against the public (9%). Both a warrant and violation of probation made up 7% of all referrals in March. Referrals for drug and alcohol offenses represented 6%, while the remaining referrals were made up of weapons offenses (3%), status offenses (1%) and “Other” offenses (5%). (Please refer to Figure 18 for a more detailed description of each offense type.)

- Police and Sheriffs were responsible for approximately 70% of all referrals in March 2013. Deputy Probation Officers were responsible for 24% of referrals. The “Other” category includes 9% of small community police departments that make up less than one percent each of the total for that group.

- In 2013, the number of youth referred to ACPD has remained fairly stable over the first three months. The percent of youth who were booked into Juvenile Hall after being referred to Probation was also consistent during this period. Youth who are not booked into Juvenile Hall are given a Notice to Appear (NTA) in Court and released.

- Figure 16 displays an aggregate summary of demographic information for youth referred to probation. Males account for 82% of the population, while females represent 18%. African-Americans make up over half of the population, Latino clients account for 27%, while White clients make up 10% of the population. The remaining clients are Asian (3%) and “Other Races” (3%).

- Figure 17 displays the locations where juveniles referred to probation in Alameda County live. The majority of youth reside in Oakland (39%) and Hayward (14%). The remaining 47% of youth reside in a variety of communities throughout Alameda County. The “Other” category includes 4% of clients who reside in small communities that make up less than one percent each of the total for that group.

- Figure 19 displays an aggregate summary of youth who were admitted/released to secure detention in March 2013. The table also displays the number of youth who were detained at the start of the month, as well as the average length of stay. The table allows the reader to “drill down” and review the data broken down by gender and race. On March 1, 2013 there were 179 youth at Juvenile Hall. Throughout the month of March, there were 280 new admissions and 284 releases from the facility. On March 31, 2013 there were 175 youth at Juvenile Hall. The average length of stay for youth in the Hall was 20 days.

- Figure 20 displays a summary of the number of youth who were admitted per month at Juvenile Hall during calendar years 2011, 2012, and 2013. The number of youth booked into Juvenile Hall increased in March 2013 to 280 (up 12% from March 2012 when 250 youth were booked into the Hall and down 11% from March 2011 when 314 youth were admitted).

- Figure 21 displays a summary of the number of youth who were released per month from Juvenile Hall during calendar years 2011, 2012, and 2013. The number of youth released in March 2013 increased from the previous year (up 11% from March 2012 when 257 youth were released from the Hall and down 7% from March 2011 when 306 youth were released from Juvenile Hall).

- The majority of juveniles held in the Alameda County Juvenile Hall were detained for offenses against persons (32%). Property offenses made up 27% of detaining offense types, followed by a combination of warrants and violations of probation (11%), while another 11% of youth were detained for straight violations of probation only. The remaining youth were detained for warrants (6%), weapons offenses (4%), drug & alcohol offenses (4%), offenses against the public (3%), and "Other" offenses (2%). (Please refer to Figure 23 for a more detailed description of each offense type.)
